St. Joseph's Hospital installs teleprinter

JULIE COONS, a member of the laboratory staff at Saint Joseph's Hospital, checks a report from the teleprinter that was recently installed in the hospital's laboratory. The use of the teleprinter will allow the laboratory to receive results of outside tests faster, enabling better patient care. See story: Saint Joseph's Hospital Photo/

A teleprinter recently installed in the laboratory at Saint Joseph's Hospital, will enable the laboratory staff to receive results for outside test faster, thus enabling better care for the patient.

Lillian W. Seroukis, MT (ASCP), laboratory director, explained that the new teleprinter "will provide reports for MetPath, the reference laboratory, as quickly as the results are compiled." She added that the printer utilizes dedicated telephone lines to maintain constant contact with the reference laboratory around the clock on Monday through Friday. The laboratory at Saint Joseph's will also be able to receive results on weekends except from 11 p.m. to 7 a.m.

Previously, results from the reference laboratory were delivered to Saint Joseph's by courier. "With the new teleprinter," Ms. Seroukas said, "We can get the report back as soon as the reference laboratory has the results."

She also pointed out the benefits to patient care at Saint Joseph's when she noted, "As soon as the results are received on the teleprinter, we can send them right to the physician. The waiting time for the results will be cut considerably with this new equipment."

Dr. Gregory Walker: NIE classes will benefit those who attend

Dr. Gregory C. Walker, president of the Northeast Institute of Education, reported that the prospective trainees who will be attending classes to prepare for the General Education Diploma (GED) test are, for the most part, optimistic about what the test can do for them, once they have secured their high school diploma.

Doctor Walker said, "One man I spoke with had been working for many years at Tobyhanna and had never had the opportunity to attend classes because of conflict with work schedule. This man, a veteran, is also eligible for schooling under the veterans' benefits as soon as he receives his GED.

"Another applicant, a young lady, has recently been divorced and has two young children to support. She left high school for marriage and motherhood and now realizes that the only chance she has to successfully obtain employment which will provide her with an income to support herself and her children, is to complete the work for her high school diploma and then, with the help of financial aid, secure training for a career in business.

"Another is a mother of several children, all of whom have grown and either finished high school or college. She finds herself alone with no responsibility, and her children are encouraging her to go back and get her diploma and then start preparing for a new career in business."

Mrs. Sally Tucker, NIE faculty member and coordinator of the GED program which is being funded in part by a grant from the Scranton-Lackawanna Human Development Agency said she has been, literally, "swamped" with telephone calls for information about the free program. "And," said Mrs. Tucker, "I am impressed with the desire and sincerity of people of all ages to get a high school diploma. The fact that NIE will have both day and evening classes available seems to make our offering so much more attractive.

While there are a few exceptions, both PHEAA and PELL financial aid grants are, for the most part, available only to high school graduates or people with with GED's.

Information regarding the opportunity to secure a General Educational Diploma (GED), at no cost, can be obtained by calling 432-1365 or by visiting the Northeast Institute of Education, 527 Linden Street (across from the Court House in downtown Scranton) from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Classes are now forming and will be starting soon.

IRS initiates toll free number for taxpayer information

Taxpayers in the Carbondale area can obtain information from the Internal Revenue Service concerning questions on their 1983 income tax forms by calling toll-free 1-800-424-1040 between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

In addition, taxpayers in those two cities who have touch-tone telephones can obtain taped answers to the 141 most commonly asked questions 24 hours-a-day, seven days a week. Taxpayers in Scranton can call 961-0325.

Persons using the tape service, known at "Tele-Tax," should have a pencil and paparer handy when they call so they can jot down the taped instructions on what numbers they will need to access the information they are seeking.

"Tele-Tax" numbers are not toll-free. Taxpayers calling from outside the Scranton local telephone exchange will have to pay toll charges.

Taxpayers wishing to visit their local IRS office to seek assistance can visit the Scranton office at 401 Adams Avenue on Monday through Friday from 8:30 to 4:30 p.m.

IRS representatives will assist taxpayers in filling out their 1983 tax forms, but will not fill out the forms for them.
